The "Cologne Spring School for Medical Humanities: Perspectives on Health, Wellbeing and Diversity" will take place at the University of Cologne/Cologne University Hospital from 18.03.-22.03.2024. This inter- and transdisciplinary 5-day summer school is aimed at advanced students and doctoral candidates to promote innovative dialog between medicine and the humanities. The perspectives of both patients and practitioners will be taken into account and deepened through focal points such as wellbeing, gender, age, environment and heritage. In this way, the Spring School is part of a comprehensive effort for a medicine of the 21st century that attempts to do justice to the individuality of illness and health as well as the diversity of our globalized lifeworlds.
